

ANEC – Alberta North Emergency Communication

ANEC is an Amateur (HAM) Radio Club based in Edmonton, Alberta.

The club was formed to be prepared to provide communications in the event there should be an emergency and the normal communications systems should fail.

All are invited to join the ANEC club. [Upon joining ANEC it is expected that you will adhere to our Bylaws.] The ANEC AGM and all other meetings are conducted via WebEx. At these meetings business is conducted and ongoing training is provided.

At these meetings, members discuss such things as:

- - How to obtain the necessary license to own and operate a HAM radio
- - What equipment is needed and where to obtain it
- - How to participate in regular and emergency nets
- - Learn proper procedures to be used during emergencies
- - and so on.

There are periodically scheduled examinations for those wanting to write the Amateur Radio licensing exam.
